All:

Richie and I still do not feel good about this. We want to rescind. I will be contacting the mediator today to discuss. I will not be signing anything else regarding this. And I'm pretty upset. As far as legal ethics go, we both came back from dinner saying we decided "not to sign". We kept saying we were "tired" and could not "think straight" and it was a very complex deal that we needed time to absorb. We also have no clue about the tax implications which could be as high as 40%, as you all kept pointing out. Then there's the generation skipping tax of 40%. I do not like this outcome and am very uncomfortable with everything. I personally feel duped. I felt like you all took advantage of our naivety with the legal process.

Take care,

Caroline
